Description

Fascinating GEORGE III bronze box medal of VICTORIES OF THE PENINSULAR WAR with roundels.
By I. Porter and E. Orme. 1815.

According to A Catalogue of British Historical Medals 1760-1960 by Lawrence Brown, Vol. I, Page 206/866, this box medal contain 13 coloured discs depicting the principle battles of the campaign, as follows:
Vimiera, Douro, Talavera, Bussaco, Albuera, Ciudad Rodrigo, Badajoz, Vitoria, Pamplona, San Sebastian, Toulouse, Salamanca and Waterloo.

The endpapers fixed to the lid and base are identical and are inscribed 'Battles of the British Army in Portugal, Spain and France from the year 1808 to 1814' etc. There are two varieties of discs; some have the name of the engagement below the scene whilst others do not. All the discs illustrating Waterloo seem to have the name, however.

These discs are beautifully illustrated with a detailed description of each battle printed on the reverse.
These box medals were extremely popular in 1815 and continue to be so today.
